List of the Books contained in Chand's poem, the Prithirája Ráso.—By JOHN BEAMES, B. C. S., Balasore.

I receive so many letters from enquirers in various parts of India asking for information as to whether this or that poem is to be found in the genuine works of Chand, that I conceive the Society would be doing a favour to scholars in publishing the following accurate list in supersession of some defective and inaccurate list previously made public.

There are in eirculation in some parts of India seraps of bardic poems all of which are dignified by the name of Chand. Some of these are apparently extracts from the real work, others are by entirely different authors.

Five MSS. may be taken to be genuine ;-

- 1. The Baidla.
- 2. Colonel Tod's, R. A. Soey.
- 3. Colonel Caulfield's, do.
- 4. The Bodleian.
- 5. The Agra College.

All these five I have seen, and compared the headings of the chapters in each; with very few and triffing exceptions they all agree in this respect, and we may, therefore, on their authority pronounce the following list to be correct, and may reject, or at least look with suspicion on, all fragments of old Hindí rhapsodies which do not find a place in it. If genuine, they are at any rate not "canonical." I give a brief note of the contents of those prastavas which I have read, of the rest merely the names and number of kavitts are given.

1. Adi Parva. 401 kavitts.* Invocations, legends of early sages, the origin of the Chauhán race, their genealogy, birth of Prithiráj.

2: Da'sama. 220k. Poems on the ten avatárs of Vishnu.

3. Di'li'ki'li' katha'. 39k. Story of the iron pillar.

4. Aja'nva'h. 18k. 166 lines also called Loháná Ajánváhu.

5. Kanhapatti. 64k. also called Kanhákhapatti. Kanh the Chauhán kills Pratáp Singh the Châluk in open darbár, because he twisted his moustache. Prithiraj compels him to wear a bandage over his eyes in darbár; hence the name of the book.

6. A'khetak bir. 113k. Marvellous story of a hunting expedition in in which Chand sees Siva and gets a blessing from him.

7. Na'har Rai. 118k. Fight with Nahar Rái.

 \ast Each kavitt, or chhand, contains generally about 30 lines, except Sáthak, dohá and one or two peculiar and rarely used metres, which seldom exceed 8 lines each.
